

DARE TO BE THE BEST

Ms. Robinson Meets The Queen

Stepping from her car on a bright morning at the start of Spring, the Queen entered Lister Community School to see the work of the Queen's Trust in action.

On Thursday, 3 March 2016 Queen Elizabeth was welcomed by Lister staff, students, members of the National Youth Orchestra and guests including Newham Mayor Sir Robin Wales and Broadcaster Sir Trevor McDonald, a Trustee of the Queen's Trust.

Accompanied by Head Teacher Anthony Wilson, Queen Elizabeth entered the school's Agora to a fanfare as the members of the audience and the musicians stood in respect.

"We could not have made the progress that we have over the last few years without the support of these organisations. The Queen's Trust has made a huge difference to the school." said Anthony.

The combined Lister and National Youth Orchestra performed Benjamin Britten's The Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra to the 1,350-strong audience, with the Queen in the front row.

The Queen also listened to performances from DrumWorks and Lister singers and dancers.

The Queen spent the rest of her morning visiting classes at Lister and met representatives of other charities supported by The Queen's Trust including Teach First, Frontline, IntoUniversity and Carers Trust.

What the Student Librarians had to say!

"I think that the best thing about the Book Fair is that we can help out and bring smiles on people's faces. I like looking at the variety of books that you can buy".

"I think that the Book Fair has been great as it lets you buy books for all ages as well as stationery. It's also really good as it encourages people to read, from kids to adults. I really enjoyed the Book Fair, as well as helping with it. I really enjoyed the books this year as they were very interesting."

"I like to read books. The Book Fair helped everyone to get a free book. Everyone liked the Book Fair. I think that every school should have a Book Fair so that people can enjoy reading books."

"The Book Fair is a good event for our school to have. As a Student Librarian I enjoy being part of the Book Fair. I have gained a lot of experience. I am confident and I will definitely help again next year."
